ON ITALIAN FRONT VIGOROUS FIGHTING OVER HIGH GROUND

ON ITALIAN FRONT

Udine, Italy, Sept. 10.—The fight against the heights northeast of Gorizia continues night and day during good and bad weather. The continuous contest seems to the observer to be animated by superhuman force, the Italians and Austrians almost constantly engaging in hand forces, virtually equal in numbers, strength and determination, struggling for supremecy in a circumscribed area where it is impossible for either side to employ more men or artillery. Gaps in the ranks are instantly filled, and thence the contending forces remain so balanced, that victory apparently is impossible to either side. The fierceness of the struggle is proven by the facts that in twelve hours, the Italians attacked the enemy five times.

Successful French Raids.

Paris, Sept. 10.—Successful raids were made by the French last night in the Champagne and Argonne regions the French war department announced. On both banks of the Meuse there was violent artillery bombardment. The French success in the sector of Sosse and Caurieres was completed and a number of prissioners taken.

SCATHING DENOUNCEMENT. Perhaps no denouncement of Robert M. That thing your sentator and misrepresentatives in congress are pushing along.

THE SCOUTS' WORK.

The work of the Boy Scours throughout this nation is cut for them during the strenuous war times that are upon us. They are an important adjunct to any community and right here in Janesville have demonstrated that its membership can be depended upon in times of necessity to do their dury like little men. It is too important an organization to be neglected for permitted to lapse in membership.

These men have no right to or permitted to lapse in membership strike down the American flag and ruin the nation. If they are deterto be copperheads let us put slituted for the youth of this world, and upon them. that brand upon them.

There is a great deal of satisfaction in creating something perfect and be untiful. To bring forth an article that might makes right. Every treaty made would be only a scrap of paper. All the weaker nations would be in deadly fear at all times of being overwhelmed by the stronger and every nation would feel that it had no security except in militarism, and be ever bent on the destruction of the other nations. It would destroy faith in the individual. No man would trust his fellows. This is a struggle between government of diving right and This is a struggle between government of divine right and government by the people. To talk of peace until that is settled is perfect folly. There would be no peace. There would always be war until the question is settled once and for all whether we shall exist under a despotism or a democracy.

There is an old saying, "When you are down in the mouth think of Jonah, he came out all right." Yes, and Job had boils also, and Egypt had the seven plagues as well, but we don't want any of them if we can help it.

That ordinance about burning leaves on the streets should be rigid England is only eighty per cent wheat flour, with the balance made up of tye or barley meal. But, on the other hand, the flour has to be bought in ly enforced and later the one about about keeping the sidewalks free from ice and snow.

Just a few weeks ago we heard the ish food director cannot control, to which is added the cost of transportation from the whent fields of Dakota or Manitoba to the English bakery. Allowing, then, for the twenty persecut of ingredients other than wheat, it still remains that the British consumer is paying, for palatable bread little inferior to our own, less than half the price.

Just a few weeks ago we heard the farmer longing for rain, and now he is afraid there is going to be too much.

THE WRIST WATCH MAN.
He is marching dusty highways and he's riding bitter trails.
His eyes are clear and shining and his muscles hard as nails.
He is wearing Yankee khaki and a healthy coat of tan
And the chap that we are backing is the Wrist Watch Man.

He's no parlor dude, a-prancing, he's no puny pacifist.
And it's not for affectation there's a watch upon his wrist.
He's a fine two-fisted scrupper, he is pure American
And the backbone of the nation is the Wrist Watch Man.

Oh, the time was that we chuckled at the soft and flabby chap. Who wore a little wrist watch that was fastened with a strap. But the chuckles all have vanished, and with glory now we scan. The courage and the splendor of the Wrist Watch Man.

He is not the man we laughed at, not the one who won our jeers, He's the man that we are proud of, be's the man that owns our cheers,
He's the finest of the finest, he's the bravest of the clan,
And I pray for God's protection for our Wrist Watch Man.

WISCONSIN LOYALTY PETITION

To The Congress of The United States,—

We, the undersigned citizens of the State of Wisconsin, are grieved and liumiliated by the fact that deliberate and concerted efforts are being made, by petitions and other instrumentalities, to represent this patriotic commonwealth to the congress of the United States as disloyal to the American Government in its hour of peril and need. We take this means to repudiate, in the name of Wisconsin, every disloyal word and deed calculated to misrepresent her and her people, to discourage the government in its efforts to win the war, to give aid and encouragement to the Imperial German Government, and thereby to increase the hardships and hazards of the Wisconsin soldiers who thereby to increase the hardships and hazards of the Wisconsin soldiers who thereby gone or are going forth to give battle in defense of the nation and of have gone or are going forth to give battle in defense of the nation and ideals, for which the Wisconsin fathers fought in 1861, declare our conviction that for which the Wisconsin fathers fought in 1861, declare our conviction that in the present war America is fighting for the preservation of the most sacred in the present war America in the National Administration, and pledge our whole hearted support to the Government of the United States.

Handy Candlestick.

An ingenious method of using a candiestick in the cellar, instead of the untidy method of sticking the burning andle to a shelf or ledge by melted wax, is to screw the candle into a heavy burr. Such an improvised candlestick prevents upsetting, and the candle can burn down and out without danger of fire.-American Boy.

RELIANCE ONLY ON MEMORY,

Zulus, Having No Written Language, Have Been Compelled to Cultivate That Quality.

It is said that the memory in savage or uncultivated peoples is often trained to a degree very surprising to those civilized men and women who have grown used to depending upon the written much more than on the remembered word. The transmission of whole epics, like the "Hind," by word of mouth no longer seems so incredthie when one reads of the feats of memory of which present-day Zulus are capable.

These people have no writing, and are accustomed to transmit messages and record events by memory alone. This they can do because their mental i impressions are made especially distinct by reason of their acquired or inherited habit of giving andivided attention to the subject in hand.

Communications between the Brit-Ish authorities and the Zulu kings are almost invariably conducted by means of oral messages carried by natives. A certain nitimatum addressed by the British to Cetywayo was conveyed to him, not upon paper but in the brain calls of the messengers whom he had sent 80 miles to receive it from the British commissioners.

Although the document contained some 4,000 words, and was accompaufed by some comment on the state of things it was desired to remedy, the whole was repeated to Cetywayo with perfect accuracy.

"Not a bit," he declared. "I never had such a ripping evening in my life." She held his arm a little tighter. She was the old Sophy again, full of life and enyety.

"Let's go to the Ablwych," she suggested, and see the dancing. We can just have something to drink, needn't have any more supper."

The cab stopped a few minutes later outside what seemed to be a private house. The door was opened at once. Sophy wrote John's name in a book. and they were ushered by the manager, who had come forward to greet them. into a long room, brilliantly lit, and filled, except in the center, with supper tubles. John looked around him wonderingly. The popping of champagne corks was almost incessant. A slightly voluptuous atmosphere of eignrette smoke, mingled with the perfumes shaken from the clothes and hair of the women, several more of whom were now dancing, hung about the place. A girl in fancy dress was passing a great basket of flowers from table to table. Sophy sat with her head resting upon her hands and her face very close to her companion's, keeping time with her feet to the music.

"[su't this rather nice?" she whispered. "Do you like being here with me. Mr. John Strangewey?"

"Of course I do." be answered heart-"Is this a restaurant?" She shook her Read.

"No, it's a club. We can sit here all plght, if you like,"

Can I Join?" he asked She laughed as she sent for a form and made him fill it in.

'Tell me," he begged, as he looked around him, "who are these girls? They look so pretty and well-dressed, and yet so amuzingly young to be out at this time of night."

"Mostly actresses," she replied, "and musical-comedy girls. I was in musical comedy myself before Louise reseued me.'

"Did you like it?" "I liked it all right," she admitted, "but I left it because I wasn't doing any good. I can dance pretty well, but I have no voice, so there didn't seem to be any chance of my getting out of the charus; and one can't even pretend less one has a part. "But these girls who are here to night?" "They are with their friends, she told him. "I suppose, if ir hadn't been for Louise, I should have been here, too-with a friend."

"I should like to see you dance," be remarked, in a hurry to change the conversation.

"I'll dance to you some day in your rooms, if you like," she promised. "Or would you like me to dance here?! There is a man opposite who wants me to. Would you rather I didn't? I want to do Just which would please you "Dance, by all means," he insisted. I should like to watch you."

She nodded, and a minute or two later she had joined the small crowd in the center of the room, clusped in the arms of a very immaculate young man who had risen and howed to her from a table opposite. John lenned back in his place and watched her admiringly. Har feet scarcely touched the ground. She never once glanced at or spoke to her partner, but every time she passed the corner where John was sitting. she looked at him and smiled.

His eyes grew brighter, and he smiled back at her. She suddenly released her hold upon her puriner and stretched out her arms to him. Her body swayed backward a little. She waved her hands with a gesture infinitely graceful, subtly alluring. Her lips were parted with a smile almost of triumph as she once more rested her hand upon her partner's shoulder. "Who is your escort this evening?"

"You would not know him." she re-

"The Milan." "I am at the Albany. So-long! Must get back to my little lady."

He bowed to Sophy and departed. She sank a little breathlessly into her chair and laid her hand on John's arm. Her cheeks were flushed, her bosom was rising and falling quickly.

"I am out of breath," she said, her head thrown back, perilously near to John's shoulder. "Lord Amerton dances well. Give me some champagne!

"And you—you dance divinely," he told her, as he filled her glass. "If we were alone," she whispered,

"I should want you to kiss me!" The stem of the wine glass in John's fingers, snapped suddenly, and the wine trickled down to the floor. A passing waiter hurried up with a napkin, and a fresh glass was brought. The affair was scarcely noticed, but John remained disturbed and a little pale.

"Have you cut your hand?" Sophy isked anxiously. "Not at all," he assured her. "How hot it is here! Do you mind if we go?"

"Go?" she exclaimed disconsolately. I thought you were enjoying yourself so much!"

"So I am," he answered, "but I don't quite understand-" He paused.

"Understand what?" she demanded. "Myself, if you must know." She set down the glass which she had been in the act of raising to her "How queer you are!" she murmurea. "Listen. You haven't got a von have no ties, you came up here perfectly free, you haven't even said anything yet—to Louise?"

"Of course not."
"Well, then—" she began.
Her words were so softly spoken that they seemed to melt away. She leaned forward to look in his face.

"Sophy," he begged, with sudden and almost passionate carnesiness, "he kind to me please! I am just a simple, stupid countryman, who feels as "Sophy," he begged, with sudden and ple, stupid countryman, who feels as if he had lost his way. I have lived a solitary sort of life—an unnatural one, you would say—and I've been brought up with some old-fashioned ideas. "What are you going to do?" she whispered.

"There is only one thing for me to do," he answered. "Until I know what I have come to London to learn, I shall fight against it."

"You mean about Louise?" "I mean about Louise," he said gravely. Sophy came still closer to him. "Why are you so foolish?" she murmured. "Louise is very wonderful, in her place, but she is not what you want in life. Has it never occurred to you that you may be too late?"

"What do you mean?" he demanded. "I believe what the world believes. what some day I think she will admit to herself-that she cares for the prince of Seyre."

"Has she ever told you so?" "Louise never speaks of these things to any living soul. I am only telling you what I think. I am trying to save you pain-trying for my own sake as

CARDINALS BEATEN BY JEFFERSON 4 TO 3

LATHROP HOLDS THE CARDS TO EICHT WELL SCATTERED HITS AND STRIKES OUT FIFTEEN MEN.

GAME IS WELL PLAYED

Weather Does Not Interfere With the Playing of Good Baseball.— Few Errors Are Made on Teams.

Good pitching by Lathrop, a former White Sox twirler, who was on the moind for Jefferson Sunday at Jefferson, when they played the Janesferson, when they played the Janesferson pitchellow and fiften strike-outs to his credit.

Janesville had a changed lineup from that which played Watertown and Fort Atkinson last week. Ryan was shifted to shortstop and performed well in his new position. O'Neit took Delaney's place at catch, while Berrigan played first base.

Jefferson scored first in the second inning when one run crossed the plate. R. Brickmaier drove out a hit to left and was scored on a three-base hit by Custer, who followed him to the plate. Crodan thea pitched himself out of a bad bole by holding Custer from scoring. Lathrop, Andre and Statz went out in order, third base to first base.

Jefferson scored again in the third, sixth and minth. In the third Lato started the inning by getting a life on an error. He was forced at second by Meyers. On the first ball pitched Meyers dashed for second and got a life as far as third, when no one covered second to tuke the throw from the catcher. Henning came through with a line drive to left and scored Meyers for the second run of the same.

ore catcher. Henning came through with a line drive to left and scored Meyers for the second run of the game.

Janesville came out of the sixth inning in the lead by the score of 3 to 2 deferson retaliated, however, in their half of the frame and tied the count at three all. Ryan got his second bit of the game to open the lining for Janesville. Cavanaush took three swings at the ball and say down again. Eberts drove the ball into deep left for a hir, Ryan advancing to third. Lathrop at this stage of the game was wild and could not locate the plate. I. Briefmaier, with a count of two to two on him, was hit by the ball, filling the bases. Milliger cane to the plate. I. Briefmaier, with a count of two to two on him, was hit by the ball, filling the bases. Milliger can and hit one of Lathrop's fast ball for three cacks scoring Ryan, Eberts and L. Briefmaier in order. On rounding third Milliger was tagged out by Lato, who got the bail on the return from the cuttled. O'Neil struck out and ended the frame.

Jefferson scored the tying run in the sixth on a hit for two sacks by R. Briefmaier, followed by a single by Cusjer. Crodan held the opponents to one run in this frame by good twirling, causing Lathrop and Andre to ground out and ended the inning.

The winning run in the last half of the ninth inning was scored on a succession of bunts by Jefferson. The winners started a bunting canonade of Crodan, which resided in the one in Lathrop on a life at first on an error by Cavanaugh to start the best and hop and Cavanaugh could not handle it. Andre on the second ball pitched bunted in front of the plate sind scampered to the base in safety. The decision on first was not even as well as the Jefferson men, but the unpite could only see that he was sufficient as the Jefferson men, but the number could only see that he was sufficient as so the fewer on the bit, while the Lanne at sinke.
